Residency Activities

Classically trained musicians, youth dancers and singers from “Golden Gates” led by Vitaliy Bezrodnov offer a wide range of outreach and residency activities. From simple outreach performances at schools, senior citizens homes, and civic or religious institutions to more complex projects with advanced high school, college or adult social studies and music students and teachers, group can design a residency to meet the goal of the presenter.

For simple outreach performances, the music of Moscow Nights and Golden Gates has broad appeal that transcends age and nationality. Throughout the program is information about Russian music, unique Russian instruments, the Country, and the people. And members of the audience have the opportunity to play traditional Russian percussion instruments along with these award winning musicians. This is a program that promotes understanding and good will.

In a more personal or individualized residency, with high school, college or adult groups, interested in social studies, they can discuss the current situation of living in Russia and the Russian people and their outlook. With advanced music students, members of Moscow Nights and Golden Gates can teach in small groups or individually the intricacies of Russian music and instruments.

Because the members of Moscow Nights and Golden Gates are authentic, educated, knowledgeable, and energetic, the extent of their residency activities is only limited by the imagination of the presenter.
